What is this appointment for?

Children from the age of 5 years old who wear hearing aids need to have their hearing tested and hearing aid provision reviewed at least every year.

Over the course of the review we will look to see if your child's hearing aids are still working effectively, whether their hearing has changed and how you are all getting on with the support you're receiving.

Why have I had two appointments sent to me?

A hearing aid review is split into 2 separate appointments; you will need to attend both. Please let us know if you are unable to attend one or both appointments, we will be able to arrange alternative dates for you.

What will happen at the first appointment?

This will consist of an ear examination and an informal chat to see how you have been getting on since your last visit to us.

We will record a tympanogram to check there is no congestion of the middle ear and we will also record an audiogram to see if there has been any change in the hearing levels.

If new earmoulds are needed, impressions can be taken and the moulds will be fitted at the next appointment.

Before you leave you will be given a questionnaire to take home and complete for your next appointment, this will be so that we can find out in more detail how you manage with your hearing aid in different situations.

What will happen at the second appointment?

We will talk through the completed questionnaire and discuss any issues that arise from the answers you've provided.

The new earmoulds will be fitted if impressions were taken last time.

We may need to make adjustments to the hearing aid settings, this may involve putting a thin tube a short way into the ear along with the earmould and hearing aid. Some sounds will then be played through a speaker whilst adjustments are made to the hearing aid. If the hearing aid is unable to be altered to suit hearing loss, or if your child has had the hearing aid for a long time, we may need to exchange it to a new one.

What will happen to my child's hearing test results?

You will be given a report to take with you when you leave, however if this is not possible on the day it will be sent to you in the post.

A copy of the test results, as well as an accompanying letter, will always be sent to your GP and copies sent to relevant health professionals who are involved with your child's care, this would include the Teacher of the Deaf, Paediatrician and School Nurse. You will have the option of receiving a copy of this letter. A copy of the hearing test is also stored in your child's hospital records and on the Audiology database.
